Commercial Law

Article-by-Article Commentary

---

Sale and carriage of goods are the most important branches of world trade for which international rules exist. Services, financing and security are about to follow. Soft law and clauses combine with international treaties. International rules call for an international perspective and uniform practice. They also have to transcend national borders. The Commentary provides in-depth article-by-article analyses of: CISG plus Limitation Convention UNIDROIT Principles Incoterms © CMR CMNI CIV CIM Montreal Convention Commercial Agents Directive Late Payment Directive Cape Town Convention UCP. Business is international and dynamic. This Commentary combines practical expertise and international perspectives. It duly follows dynamic and development. Trade, transport, distribution and financing appear as the unity they are in commercial practice. The new Commentary aims at being a complete package. A single reach to the desk – and all is on display.
