

NeoReviews

NeoReviews.org is an online journal directed at individuals involved with neonatal-perinatal medicine. By providing contemporary, in-depth reviews of major topics in the field, NeoReviews enhances continuous professional development of specialists and trainees in neonatal-perinatal medicine and provides an opportunity for lifelong learning aimed at optimal patient outcomes. The journal also seeks to provide historical, international and educational perspectives, together with case discussions, to address core curriculum needed to prepare for Maintenance of Certification. Content is derived from the Content Specifications of the American Board of Pediatrics. Major reviews also include questions available for continuing medical education credits.
